
Grants review 2014–2015

Supporting positive change in communities

Please see our website www.tudortrust.org.uk for more information on our work, and for up-to-date details of the grants we make.

The Tudor Trust

The Tudor Trust is an independent grant-making trust. Most of our grant making is focused on the UK, although we also run a small targeted grants programme promoting ecological agriculture in Zimbabwe, Kenya and Uganda.

In the UK we support work which tries to address the many different needs of people at the margins of our society, funding a wide range of organisations which support positive change in communities.

We concentrate on helping smaller, community-led groups: often charities, although we can fund other types of organisation too including constituted community groups and community interest companies. We aim to respond to the needs identified by our applicants and to provide some of the resources they need to achieve their aims and make a difference within their communities.

Tudor has been making grants since 1955 and our trustees' approach to grant making has developed over this time. In recent years we have moved away from setting our own funding priorities in favour of supporting what applicants themselves identify as most important. This change of approach means that applicants don't need to design their application to match our priorities but can apply for what they really want.

This often means that our grants go towards things like salaries and the other core running costs of an organisation – though this is not always the case, as you will see from our grants list.

Our approach to funding

We don't try and advance a particular agenda through our grant making as we think that groups working on the ground have the knowledge and experience to identify problems and develop solutions which meet the real needs of the people they work with. So while we do have a few exclusions – types of work we don't fund – our funding guidelines are designed to be flexible and open, simply identifying some of the 'key characteristics' we are looking for in the groups we fund.

These include:

- Organisations working directly with people who are at the margins of society
- A focus on building stronger communities by overcoming isolation and fragmentation and encouraging inclusion, connection and integration
- Organisations which are embedded in their community and which can identify and channel the potential within that community – whether the local area or a 'community of interest'
- Organisations which can demonstrate that they listen to and are responsive to their users
- Organisations which are thoughtful in their use of resources and which foster community resilience in the face of environmental, economic or social change

Our ultimate beneficiaries are the thousands of people that the groups we fund support, rather than the groups themselves. We aim to make the best use of our resources by making grants to well-run, outward-looking groups which have a real understanding of the challenges facing the communities they support, and a clear sense of the difference they seek to make through their work.

We want to be a helpful and flexible funder, making grants in a responsive, imaginative and straightforward way. A key element of our approach is that we don't just offer financial support: we engage with our grant holders in other ways too, offering advice and development support where this is needed and working to build a funding relationship which is based on openness and trust.

Grants review

Over the year Tudor made grants supporting a wide range of work which met our overarching aim of addressing the multiple needs of people at the margins of society. This review provides information about all the grants we made last year alongside a more detailed analysis of the applications received and grants made. We hope that this will give you a good idea both of the kind of organisations and work Tudor supports and of our approach to grant making.

The grants list also shows that, despite the many challenges it is currently facing, the UK voluntary and community sector remains both strong and diverse. We are pleased to be able to support so many committed, effective and resourceful organisations.

The information in this grants review expands on information contained in Tudor's full annual report and accounts for 2014–2015, which are independently audited. The annual report and accounts will give you a wider perspective on our work over the year, beyond our grant making. You can download a copy from our website www.tudortrust.org.uk or, if you'd like a hard copy, please contact our office.

Tudor's funding guidelines for 2015–2016 are also on our website. The guidelines explain what we are looking for in the organisations we support and give full details of how to apply. If you are thinking of making an application please read the guidelines carefully first.

If you have any questions about our grants which aren't answered in this review please do get in touch. You can call us on 020 7727 8522.

Applications in 2014–2015

We received 2,864 applications for funding in 2014–2015, a 5% increase on the previous year.

98% of the applications we received were eligible under our guidelines. This high level of eligibility is due to the open nature of our funding guidelines which are designed to allow groups to apply for funding which meets their specific priorities.

However, only around one in ten of eligible applications received a grant this year. Our flexible guidelines mean that we receive many more applications than we can ever fund and inevitably this leads to disappointment for many applicants seeking funding for vital and valuable work. We have therefore tried to make sure that our application process is simple and straightforward, using a two-stage process to keep the time and resources groups have to dedicate to completing their application to us to a minimum.

On average it took 22 days for us to give applicants a decision on their first-stage proposal.

For those applications which reached the second stage, it took us on average 103 days (around 3 1/2 months) to reach a final decision on a grant. This is from the date that the application was first received. 98% of applications which got through to second stage and progressed to Grants Committee for discussion by trustees received a grant.

Grants made in 2014–2015

	2014–2015	2013–2014
Number of applications	2,864	2,735
Number of eligible applications	2,810	2,653
Applications presented to committee	300	374
Number of grants	294	365
Total amount committed in grants	£17,195,248	£19,855,291
Average grant	£58,487	£54,398

We made 294 grants totalling £17.2 million in 2014–2015. In July 2014 Tudor’s Board decided to reduce the level of our grant making over the year by a small amount to allow the staff team to focus on a Review process. This meant that we made fewer new grant commitments than in 2013–2014, when we made 365 grants totalling £19.9 million.

The average grant was £58,487 – a slight increase on last year. However if we discount the 32 smaller-scale staff grants, development grants and Africa Group capacity-building grants made over the year we reach a more representative average grant figure of £65,277. We explain a bit more about these smaller-scale grants later on in the grants list.

We would rather that applicants don’t refer to our average grant size when framing their request: we are keen to support what groups most need and so the average grant size is largely irrelevant in practice. Instead we would encourage applicants to look at our grants lists (posted every three months on our website) to get a sense of the range and level of grants we make. The chart overleaf shows the profile of the grants made by size.

We made 294 grants totalling £17.2 million in 2014–2015.

Grants by size

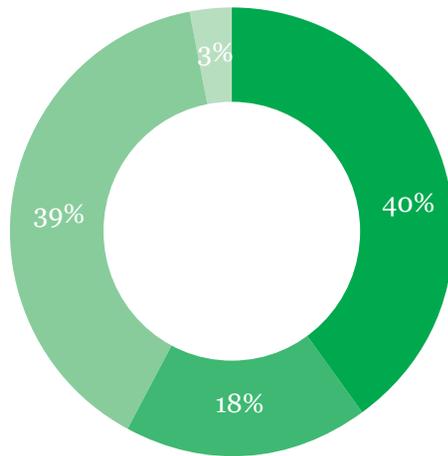

We made one unusually large grant in 2014–2015 with a £1,200,000 capital commitment to OWCH (Barnet) Ltd to develop a pioneering cohousing scheme for older women. This grant was agreed by the full Board in May 2014 but was the culmination of a piece of work initiated by Tudor’s Almshouse Group in 2006.

Discounting capital grants, so looking just at revenue grants, 86% of our grants by value went towards core organisational costs – things like key salaries and general running costs. Across all grants made in the year 74% by value went towards core funding, 11% towards specific projects and 14% towards capital projects.

By value, 86% of our revenue grants went towards core funding.

Grants to new organisations

- Continuation
- Funded before
- New organisation
- Already funding

39% of our grants went to groups we have never funded before.

In 2014–2015 39% of our grants went to organisations which we have never funded before; 40% were for continuation funding (so followed straight on from a previous grant); 18% went to organisations which we have funded at some point in the past and 3% went to organisations which were already holding another grant from us.

35% of the revenue grants made in 2014–2015 were made over three years or longer, 33% for two years and 30% over one year.

Of our three year grants, 41% went to groups we haven't funded before.

47% of the two year grants made over the year followed straight on from a previous grant, usually itself made over two or three years. This means that we often fund for a longer period than might be immediately obvious through reading our grants list.

This table shows how our grants were distributed by region in 2014–2015. Tudor is a responsive funder, making grants on the basis of the applications we receive irrespective of where they come from. However, we do keep an eye on where our grants are going and if we feel we are not receiving enough applications from a particular area we try to make sure that potential applicants have heard of us and understand what we might offer. We do this by attending funding events, where we can meet local groups, and by talking to the local infrastructure bodies and funding advisers who support voluntary and community groups in their fundraising.

The organisations we supported in 2014–2015

Tudor has a particular interest in supporting smaller-scale organisations, so we monitor the size of the organisations we fund, using organisation expenditure as an indicator. In 2014–2015 36% of our grants went to organisations with a turnover of less than £100,000. A full breakdown of the grants we made to organisations of different sizes is given below: this analysis does not include staff grants, development grants or Africa Group capacity-building grants.

Tudor has a longstanding interest in supporting the kind of grassroots community activity which helps to maintain and develop the stability and resilience of communities while also making life better for local people. In 2014–2015 34% of our grants provided support to organisations such as community centres, community development groups, community food projects, community gardens and growing schemes, green spaces and neighbourhood advice projects: all groups which help to sustain, energise and bond their local communities.

Engagement with applicants and grant holders

Alongside this we also support organisations which address marginalisation and disadvantage in a more targeted way: for example in 2014–2015 7% of our grants went to groups providing support to refugee and asylum seekers, 6% to groups with a focus on mental health, 4% to groups working with people with disabilities, 4% towards work with people who are homeless or who have experienced homelessness and 4% to groups working in the area of criminal justice.

We also monitor the proportion of our grants going towards targeted work with BME communities, or to BME-led groups. In 2014–2015 16% of our grants went towards work with this specific BME focus.

288 visits and meetings
in 2014–2015.

Over the year Tudor’s Grants Team managed a portfolio of just under 900 ‘active’ grants, developing new applications, responding to reports and making payments as well as providing support where needed around a range of issues including governance, organisational development, recruitment, financial management, funding and evaluation. Over the last few years we have noted an increase in the level and complexity of the grants management required across our portfolio as a whole, and this continued in 2014–2015.

Organisations approach us with a wide range of problems and issues, many stemming from the uncertain financial climate they are operating within.

Talking to our applicants and grant holders is one of the best ways for us to gather information, intelligence and learning. We appreciate the value of face-to-face contact so try and visit as many applicants and grant holders as we can, although this can be challenging as we are a national funder with a relatively small staff team. In 2014–2015 we visited 35% of our applicants as part of the assessment process: where we can’t visit we rely on a telephone assessment to help us develop the second-stage application. We also made 76 monitoring visits and held 127 meetings with applicants and grant holders at our offices.

UK grants

This section of the grants list covers most of our grants made within the UK: primarily grants made in response to applications made under our funding guidelines but also development grants – small grants up to a maximum of £7,500 intended to help a group strengthen and develop a particular aspect of their organisation. Development grants are made in response to a need identified by an organisation in discussion with their grants manager. Eleven UK development grants were made in 2014–2015.

Overseas grants

Although Tudor is primarily a UK funder we do make a number of grants in Africa each year. Tudor’s Africa Group – a small special interest group made up of trustees and staff – runs a targeted programme promoting ecological agriculture in Zimbabwe, Kenya and Uganda. This is a proactive funding programme and we don’t consider unsolicited applications.

Through the Group Tudor supports farmer-to-farmer learning initiatives, which are cost effective and scalable and also build knowledge and expertise. Tudor also funds centres that can demonstrate agro-ecological approaches and act as informal, and sometimes formal, teaching establishments. We encourage peer-to-peer learning between organisations through exchange visits and hold a biennial conference in Africa. Our ultimate aim is strengthening the voice of the smallholder farmer – this resonates with our work in the UK which focuses on supporting marginalised communities.

In 2014–2015 Tudor also made a small number of grants towards work overseas that sits outside the Africa Group’s programme. These include two grants made to organisations based in the United States and Canada to support the work of the Global Alliance for the Future of Food and one grant made to the Eastern Europe Development Association, an organisation which received a great deal of support from Tudor during the 1990s.
